Why to use Adobe Photoshop Elements instead of other graphics software Photoshop Elements is built for professional image editing and is not just for hobbyists. Instead of being bloated with many features and having a complex user interface, Photoshop Elements is easy to use. It is a collection of small applications without any overlapping features. In fact, you can use the free version of Photoshop Elements to edit images taken with your iPhone or Android smartphone. Q: How to do autocomplete in a combobox? I'm trying to do an autocomplete in a combobox. I've tried this: Dim str As String Dim objDataAccess As New DataAccess() Dim ds As New DataSet() ds.Tables.Add("cbo_idtype") str = "SALES" Dim lastRow As String lastRow = "SELECT cbo_idtype FROM tbl_vendor WHERE cbo_idtype LIKE '%" + str + "%' order by cbo_idtype desc" objDataAccess = New DataAccess() objDataAccess.ExecuteQuery(lastRow) cbo_idtype.DataSource = ds.Tables(0) cbo_idtype.DisplayMember = "cbo_idtype" cbo_idtype.ValueMember = "cbo_idtype" But it return an error (it's possible that the field cbo_idtype does not exist?) Help please. A: You can't just perform a SQL query like this from code, because you don't know what fields the table has. If the cbo_idtype field is not in the table then you'll get an error at runtime, and if it is there you'll just get an empty ComboBox without any data. You need to know the structure of the table before you can make any queries. Luckily you already have that information - you can use DataSet.GetSchema to get this information, and then perform queries like "SELECT * FROM tbl_vendor WHERE cbo_idtype LIKE '%SALES%'" which will allow you to display the data in the ComboBox. However, you are making things unnecessarily complicated and have hidden the real problem in your code: Either you need to remove the DisplayMember and ValueMember property lines from your code, because those lines will take data from the underlying dataset instead of from your query, or you need to remove the ds.Tables(0) line from the code, as that will take data from the result set of your SQL query instead of from your underlying data
