While the project is said to be in its earliest stages, it is slowly starting to take shape as Björk has revealed that she has meetings every day, and hopefully it will be ready to record in January. The idea to make a new album has been discussed for a while, but has been pushed to the back burner because of record label problems, and then the "Utopia" tour. Björk has admitted that some of the material is done, though there are a lot more "vital, intense" songs ready to be worked on.The expansion of my youth hockey program at Old Monkton Iceplex has taken the following steps: Summer camps: 3, 4, and 5 day camps Ice program: 1-hour ice time weekly for all ages Play and Practice: 1-hour ice time weekly for 6v6 Rental fees: Each year the ice fees will increase and we will be working to keep this as affordable as possible. Hypebot, New York, April 05, 2013 — Social media analytics, a term used to describe the process of using data and technology to better understand the impact of online communities and social media, is moving beyond the realm of consumer insight and market sizing to a new level, enabling organizations to understand the impact of their activities on both communities and the economy. Social media analytics blends traditional data analytics with social media monitoring technologies to help companies find trends and generate insights for their bottom lines. For example, in 2011, 80 million tweets were posted worldwide, according to a report from IBM (Research) and Celent (research). This volume of activity is growing rapidly. Social media analytics leverages new data-oriented methods to analyze social networks, and how people are responding to information shared online. Using social media analytics, companies gain a better understanding of audience demographics, online sentiment, behavioral patterns, and user interaction. This can help companies understand how consumers are responding to branded content and online communities. For example, a restaurant might use social media analytics to measure positive sentiment associated with a new menu item, or negative sentiment toward their current dish offerings. A manufacturer might track comment threads associated with product recalls and other issues. A financial services organization might keep an eye on its customer response to company-related social media mentions. An organization's efforts to measure the impact of its social media activities in a community is one of the more engaging ways to engage

I need to populate an array with the results from a query on the above table. I'm struggling to find out how to turn the results of my query into a 2D array or array of arrays, I have got this far; $query = mysql_query("SELECT title, bookpage FROM reading ORDER BY rand()"); while ($r = mysql_fetch_array($query, MYSQL_ASSOC)) { echo ""; echo $r['title']. $r['bookpage']; echo ""; } which produces a list of results. The results look like this, ABC XYZ 110 DEF 123 GHI 134 JKL 543 I need to turn this into 2D array so that I can find the shortest route to get from one title to the next, I think it may have to be a "nested loop" in PHP. Example 1 Given these results, Title Bookpage ABC 10 DEF 12 GHI 13 Route: ABC -> DEF Expected result: 4 Current result: 2 Example 2 Given these results, Title Bookpage ABC 11 ABC 10

DEF 12 GHI 13 JKL 543 Route: ABC -> DEF
DEF -> GHI Expected result: 2 Current result:
2 What I'm trying to achieve is the length of the shortest route from one title to the next.
A: I would do it like this, see "brute force" ;-) $query = mysql_query("SELECT title, bookpage FROM reading ORDER BY rand()"); $result = array(); while ($r = mysql_fetch_array($query, MYSQL_ASSOC)) { $result[] = array('title' => $r['title'],
'bookpage' => $r['bookpage']); } $min = 0;
$min_length = 0; foreach($result as $r)
if($min
